Encyclopedia Britannica

To find high quality, extensive information, a great place to look is Encyclopedia Britannica Online Encyclopedia, which combines Encyclopedia Britannica, Merriam-Webster’s Collegiate Dictionary & Thesaurus, magazines and periodicals, and other research tools to provide a variety of reliable sources for conducting research.

From the main BHSU homepage at www.bhsu.edu, expand the Popular Links at the top of the page and click on the Library icon.

On the library homepage you will see a section labeled Browse Databases.

Under this section, click the General link.

Here you will see a list of General Research Databases. From this list click Britannica Online 2006. You will now be directed to the Encyclopedia Britannica homepage.

You can now enter your search terms into the Search Box.

Notice that you can search either the Encyclopedia Britannica Online or the Merriam-Webster Dictionary & Thesaurus by clicking the appropriate button.

Also notice that you can browse subjects found under the Search Box.

Notice that you can also do an Advanced Search by clicking the Advanced Search link located next to the Search Box. This will help you limit your results.

Lets search for information about “Charles Lindbergh”.

Type in “Charles Lindbergh” in the Search Box and click GO.

On the next screen you will see your search results.

In the center of the screen will be a list of Encyclopedia Articles relating to the search.

On the left side of the screen is a box with multiple sources on the topic “Charles Lindbergh”. These can help you to access more information in Journals & Magazines, the Britannica Concise Encyclopedia, and websites.

On the right side of the screen is a box with Multimedia links to video clips, images, and animations related to the topic “Charles Lindbergh”.

Click the title of the first article listed Lindbergh, Charles A.
The article page will open with the text from the article appearing in the center of the page.

Notice the Workspace Toolbar at the top of the article. Here you can save a link to the page, print the article, e-mail the article, or cite the article.

Also notice that you can expand your research by looking in the Expand Your Research box on the right side of the article.

If you plan to cite this article in your research, you can reference the correctly formatted citations including MLA and APA formats at the bottom of the page.

If you choose to do a new search you can simply type your search topic into the Search Box at the top of the screen and click GO.